ELSEVIER

Health Policy 29 (1994) 265–266

HEALTH policy

Volume contents

Volume 29 (1994)

Number 1, 2

Special issue: Health care reform in New Zealand

Guest Editors: George Salmond, Gavin Mooney and Miriam Laugesen

George Salmond, Gavin Mooney and Miriam Laugesen (New Zealand)
Introduction to health care reform in New Zealand 1

Glossary of terms 5

Miriam Laugesen and George Salmond (New Zealand)
New Zealand health care: A background 11

Claudia D. Scott (New Zealand)
Reform of the New Zealand health care system 25

Jacqueline Cumming (New Zealand)
Core services and priority setting: The New Zealand experience 41

Philippa Howden-Chapman and Toni Ashton (New Zealand)
Shopping for health: Purchasing health services through contracts 61

Laurence Malcolm and Pauline Barnett (New Zealand)
New Zealand's health providers in an emerging market 85

Helen Carter (New Zealand)
Disability support services and the reforms 101

Peter Davis, Barry Gribben, Roy Lay Yee and Brian McAvoy (New Zealand)
The impact of the new subsidy regime in general practice in New Zealand 113

Don Bandaranayake (New Zealand)
Public health and the reforms: The New Zealand experience 127

Patricia Laing and Eru Pomare (New Zealand)
Maori health and the health care reforms 143

Kerry Jacobs (New Zealand)
The management of health care: A model of control 157

Gavin Mooney and George Salmond (New Zealand)
A reflection on the New Zealand reforms 173

Number 3

Peter Garpenby and Per Carlsson (Sweden)
The role of national quality registers in the Swedish health care service 183

Yasuki Kobayashi (Japan)
Health care expenditures for the elderly and reforms in the healthcare system of Japan 197

Anne Mills (UK)
The economic consequences of malaria for households: A case-study in Nepal 209

Märten Lagergren (Sweden)
Disability development and the structure of care: Some results from simulation of an area-based system of long-term care for elderly people 229

Christine Huttin (Hong Kong)
The Chinese medicines market: Moving towards a market system? 247

Book Reviews and Books Received 261

News 263

Contents of Volume 29 265

Authors Index 267

Subject Index 268